

Method for preserving French Green Beans

To preserve haricot verts for winter use.

Take a tight barrel with one head out, and set it up on-end. Let your snaps be green but their moisture dried out a little. Lay in a layer of salt and a later of beans alternately, each about a finger thick, and finish with a layer of salt. Lay the loose head on them and weight it pretty well down with stones.

About a bushel of beans will serve a family the winter.