

Jefferson to Edward Dowse

In this letter, Jefferson praised Jesus as a great moral reformer who taught people to love one's neighbor as oneself. But he also respected the moral teachings of non-Christian ancient philosophers. Jefferson believed that people should freely debate and profit from all ideas, both sacred and secular.