

Manuscript Music Book

This music book may have belonged to Thomas Jefferson's wife, Martha Wayles Skelton. Music was an important part of the education of young people, especially females, because it could be--in Jefferson's words--a "delightful recreation for the hours of respite from the cares of the day [which] lasts us through life."