

Declaration of Independence by Stone

This document is a copy of the Declaration of Independence produced in 1823. As Secretary of State, John Quincy Adams came to believe that the original Declaration was fading over time and becoming illegible. He commissioned an engraver named William J. Stone to make an exact replica in order to preserve the document for future generations.