

James Madison to Jefferson

In this letter, James Madison explains to his friend Thomas Jefferson why he opposes the addition of a bill of rights to the U.S. Constitution. Madison, who had played a key role in drafting the Constitution, initially opposed the inclusion of what he called a "parchment barrier" to protect individual rights. Jefferson's arguments helped convince Madison to change his mind.