

Message to the Senate and House

In this January 1804 message to Congress, President Jefferson applauded the successful occupation of the recently purchased Louisiana Territory by U.S. civil and military authorities. Jefferson believed that acquiring this vast territory and its port, New Orleans, would guarantee freedom and prosperity for future generations of Americans.