

Jefferson to Frances Wright

In this letter, Jefferson responded to the anti-slavery ideas of Frances Wright, who had recently visited him at Monticello. Wright was a feminist and an abolitionist. She later founded a short-lived utopian community in Tennessee, where she hoped to prepare enslaved people for emancipation.