

Slavery Broadside

Colonial newspapers often featured advertisements announcing the sale of slaves. The Africans in this advertisement were said to be from Sierra Leone. Although most slave traders tended to import many more men than women, this shipment contained nearly as many females as males.