

Jefferson to Charles Clay

In this letter, Thomas Jefferson looked ahead to the upcoming congressional elections. The recent adoption of the U.S. Constitution created a stronger national government. Jefferson knew that the beliefs and values of the men who were elected to Congress would shape the policies of the new government and the future of the republic.