

Jefferson to Tench Coxe

In the 1790s, Jefferson followed the news from Europe, as this letter shows. Here, he applauded the success of the Dutch republicans and worried about the violent excesses of the French Revolution under Robespierre. Jefferson believed that the American example inspired Europeans who fought for liberty and democracy.