

Declaration of Independence

This document is a large, handwritten copy of the Declaration of Independence. Although the Declaration had been approved and printed on July 4, 1776, Congress later ordered the drafting of an engrossed, or enlarged, version to which all the delegates to the Continental Congress could affix their signatures. 56 delegates eventually signed their names.