

Notes of James McHenry

In his diary, Dr. James McHenry, one of Maryland's delegates to the Constitutional Convention, reflects on the meeting's closing days. He recalls that someone posed a question to the eminent Benjamin Franklin, asking for his assessment of the Convention's work. Franklin gives an upbeat but cautionary comment about the fragile nature of republican governments.