

Preamble and Resolution of the Virginia Convention

This document records the sentiments of Virginia's local representatives concerning independence. Ahead of the other colonies, Virginia declared its independence from Britain and instructed its delegates at the Continental Congress to introduce a motion for independence for the united colonies. Richard Henry Lee subsequently did this.